

Heriot-Watt Learning & Teaching Week 2022 The Campus Sessions

Re-imagining University Education: Possible Futures and Practical Action for Change

Monday 06/06/22 (UK times)	Scottish Borders Campus
10:00-12:30	Exploring Assessment for Learning: Sharing Practice, Shaping Action This interactive session is an opportunity for colleagues to share their current assessment approaches, highlight where this is effective and working well, and explore together areas for development and innovation. The session will explore what authentic and engaging assessment could mean in the Textiles and Design discipline contexts. It opens blue-sky thinking about what an ideal assessment could consist of and how to approach assessment design. The session will conclude by exploring the resources, information and support that would help teaching teams continue to develop their assessment practice.
12:30 – 14:00	LUNCH
14:00 – 14:45	Fostering Student Engagement and Active Learning The morning session was designed to engage all participants. We used assessment as a topic for discussion, and we explored it through a structured process, designed for active participation. In this session, we examine the processes in more detail, identifying what makes a session engaging for participants, and what really helps students learn. We'll open discussion to share practice and explore what approaches could work in your context.
15:00 – 16:30	Making Feedback Efficient and Effective In this session we will explore feedback. We will look at principles of feedback, constructive alignment and how to involve students in the process. We will look at examples of feedback practice, for example in group work, audio feedback, peer and tutor feedback, which you can adapt and use in a range of contexts.
